American Numismatic Society,
Broadway & 156th Street,
New York, N.Y.

Gentlemen:-

The Countess Vittoria de Fogolari-Toldo of Rovereto, Italy, states in a letter received this morning that she "possesses some gold coins of great value" which she " would offer to someone who would know how to appreciate them." She asks for the address of "one or two of the most important numismatic associations in New York" with whom she could correspond.

The Countess fails to State whether she is acquainted with the English language, and you will notice that she gives no details whatever as to the coins. Would the American Numismatic Society care to get in touch with the Countess, or would it be preferable to have this office advise the Countess to communicate directly with the Society, in Italian if she knows no English ?

Perhaps some member of the Society may be sufficiently interested to communicate personally with the Countess or else contact migh be established through the Italian Representative of the Society or of a member. It is evident, however, that the Countess prefers no European intermediaries, else she would very likely have addressed the Italian Numismatic Society or some other European Numismatic body.

In any case, we append the full address of the Countess, and would be grateful to the Society for an early reply.

Very truly yours,
ITALIAN STATE TOURIST OFFICE.

EDWARD V. LECOUR,
Manager.
